

Why the Network Marketing Model?

You know how to sign someone up, but how do you overcome the objections that you could hear about the new business venture you have taken on? Well, you need to know why Young Living chose the network marketing model and believe in it yourself.

Network marketing is probably the most misunderstood and misused business model in the world. So many network marketing companies are perceived as being based on greed, pressure, hype, and manipulation. This has tainted most people's view of the network marketing model.

What if we can base our business on truly being of service to others by educating, empowering and inspiring and getting paid for it?

We always focus on the needs of the people we meet, educate, empower and inspire. Financial rewards are always secondary. By living in gratitude and service to others, you can also create fabulously abundant financial support for yourself.
